

Conclusion

The Automated Network Request Management (ANRM) application successfully automates the lifecycle of network service requests using the ServiceNow platform. The project demonstrates CSA and CAD concepts including scoped application development, custom tables, business rules, access controls, notifications, reporting, and AI-assisted request querying. The solution improves operational efficiency, enhances security through role-based access, and provides better visibility into network request processing.